The University of Passau, as it exists today, was established in 1978. However, its history dates back to the early 17th century when a theological academy was founded on the same site. Situated on the borders with Austria and the Czech Republic, the university's location has a great impact on its European outlook. European Studies is taught at both BA and MA levels and is also an integral part of the law, economic and cultural studies programmes. The university has 10,000 students and boasts over 200 partner universities worldwide.

In cooperation with

"In the service of democracy, peace and development" – this is the motto that the Hanns Seidel Foundation applies to its work and mission. The motto applies not only for its commitment in Germany, especially in Bavaria, of course, but also abroad. Since its establishment on April 11, 1967, the Hanns Seidel Foundation has been practising political education work, policy advice and development cooperation in currently 72 countries.

The Academy for Politics and Current Affairs conducts and offers practice-oriented political advisory services. Fundamental data and information for political decisions are compiled on a scientific basis, just as the Academy organizes conferences and publishes various studies, reports and other publications. In all, the Academy conducts no less than 100 events every year.

Lifetime Achievement Award

UACES is pleased to announce that Professor Emil Kirchner has been awarded the 'UACES Lifetime Achievement Award' for his contribution to contemporary European Studies.

The award will be presented to Emil at the Annual Conference Dinner on Tuesday evening.

We've asked some former colleagues to write a few words about Emil...

Prof Philomena Murray
The University of Melbourne

"I am delighted to provide this testimonial for Emil Kirchner, who is an outstanding scholar. He has the capacity to bring groups of scholars together and to challenge them to excel in their analysis. He is a quiet supporter of students and young academics in particular. I have had the pleasure of working with him on the Palgrave Handbook of EU-Asia Relations, with Thomas Christiansen. Here I found him to be the ideal co-editor – wise, organized and very supportive of the 50 or so contributors. His expertise on Europe and Asia, especially China, is widely acknowledged to be world-class. He has been a committed pioneer in the development of European integration studies as a torch-bearer, examining issues ranging from the European Parliament to European security, and drawing on his comparative politics experience to develop new agendas on global security governance and EU-Asia relations. I warmly congratulate you!"

Dr Katja Sarmiento-Mirwaldt
Brunel University

"I have known Emil for nearly ten years, first as my PhD supervisor and now as a mentor. In all this time, he has had a decisive influence over my academic and professional development. It was Emil who first inspired me to pursue a career teaching and researching modern Europe. His extensive knowledge of so many different aspects of European politics has shaped my view of the EU, and doubtless that of many others like me. Working with Emil has been a great experience. I will always be grateful to him for his encouragement and support."

Prof Baldur Thorhallsson
University of Iceland

"Emil Kirchner's analytical approach, determination and enthusiasm for the European project have been a guiding light for all of us who had the honour to be his students. As a lecturer, he brilliantly combined theory with practice, and encouraged active discussion and critical thinking. His deep knowledge of the European project and its complexities inspired my own engagement with European affairs, and I had his wholehearted personal support for my thesis on small states in the European Union. He also helped inspire the University of Iceland's first conference on small states in Europe, leading to the establishment of our Centre for Small States."

Prof Ian Barnes
University of Lincoln

"Emil Kirchner is a man whose wide range of talents is being recognised by the award of the UACES Lifetime Achievement award. Emil's work as a scholar is sufficient in itself to merit such an award. But Emil has contributed so much more to the development of our discipline and the cause of greater understanding of European issues. When he was a member of the UACES Committee he made an outstanding contribution towards raising money for our organisation at the time of the purchase of our stake in the JCMS. As the Treasurer at that time, I found his knowledge of budget lines to be invaluable. Finally, it should be remembered that Emil was an important element in setting up such programmes as EU China and EU India. A remarkable lifetime's achievement and also there is still time to do so much more."

East European Politics

East European Politics is a refereed journal which publishes articles in the government, politics and international relations of the post-communist space. In geographical terms, EEP covers the entire post-communist region, including East Central and South Eastern Europe, Russia and all the other countries of the former Soviet Union. The journal publishes original scholarship on political developments in individual countries, together with cross-country comparative analyses and studies of the relations between post-communist regions and other parts of the world, including internationally based organizations.

CRonEM, University of Surrey

CRonEM – the Centre for Research on the European Matrix – is a multidisciplinary research centre housed in the School of Politics at the University of Surrey.

We focus on the lived experience of European integration, i.e. how the complex constellation, or matrix, of European processes, institutions and actors – including, but not limited to, the EU – affects and is shaped by the lives of citizens. CRonEM organises a series of academic and outreach events. We also welcome visiting scholars whose work fits our research agenda.
